

CELEBRITY PREDICTIONS

Every issue, one of Australia's most well-known clairvoyants, Shani Ford, looks at what's ahead for your favourite stars...

★ Troy Cassar-Daly

Is one of the best country and western singers and he sings from the heart. Tamworth is his favourite place and he is much loved in that town. There is an offer from Nashville. Troy will always remain the nice man that he is and his family will always come first. The sickness of a mother figure will concern him a lot and he will provide the best of care for her. A surprise baby that is not planned will be as much of a delight as his other children. Two Australian TV stations will offer him his own show.

★ Jessica Simpson

Will be in a confused state for a while and is regretting the break up of her marriage, but her ex really wants to go in his own direction. Jess will not want him to remarry and hopes that they can reconcile in the future, but he will never be sure of her again. Jessica will have a string of unsuccessful companions and will tire of the changes in partnerships to add to her confusion. She has to learn not to be in competition with her romantic interests. She can be quite controlling in a quiet way; however, she will be thrilled at the prospect of a major part in a movie associated with the political time of ex-President Clinton.

Is the girl who got noticed in the swear word ad that was a put off in England. But since then she has gained more confidence and has been a part of the Celebrities on Ice show. She needs a new agent and is setting her sights on LA eventually. Lara will consider advanced acting classes in New York. Later she will fade, realising being beautiful is not enough, as she looks like so many other beautiful blondes. They seem to grow on trees in the US and she will have to be truly outstanding to climb the blonde trees there. High powered contacts in the entertainment industry could help, and it is all about being noticed at the right function at the right time. Her star will glitter for a while but then it's lights out.

★ Kate Ritchie

She can pull off the singing in It Takes Two and she has done well in Home and Away. The UK has noticed her and will try to lure her to be in Emmerdale, a new soap series there. She will be advised against it, as if she goes for it she may not be taken seriously for a future movie role. A love interest will go out of her life and a new one will enter. Kate is tired of the goody-goody roles but she has such a sweet face that she will not be too believable being a villainess. Kate is surprising, though, and even surprises herself a lot. She will be acting for a long time yet, even though she gets anxious that the end of it all is just around the corner. Kate is always ready for the hard road, but more and more her amazing talents are showing through.

★ Nicole Ritchie

Will have a big spat with friend, Paris Hilton and somehow they try to drag Stavros Niarchos into it, but he will exit fast and still trying to put salt on Lindsay Lohan's tail. He does not take anything too seriously and he is still a very young hunk and is sowing wild oats by the bushel. Being a rich playboy, he can have a lackey to carry the bundles of the wild oats whenever he needs a bit of help to disappear. This boy is a slippery one, indeed so no matter how hard Nicole tries to get him on her side, she will not be able to get him to stay still long enough. It's better for her to just grow up and treat her friends like she would like to be treated.

★ Richie Sambora

Will remarry and did not have such an easy time with ex-wife Heather Locklear. She is still interested in his movements with all the new chicks and flings as he is enjoying his freedom. He does not want a dominant mother type anymore, which Heather became. Richie did enjoy being a Dad but he wants to travel around and get his ex out of his hair. He is hoping very hard that she will find someone very soon. For a while he just wants to do what he wants when he wants, with no questions asked. In 2007 he will think of marrying again.

★ Paul McCartney

Is relieved to be untethered from his ex and he will be generous with the big pay out. Paul never stopped missing his late wife, Linda, and Heather McCartney Mills always felt she had to compete with a ghost. It would have been difficult, but there were lots of nice things to compensate, although it was never enough and Paul McCartney just felt drained most of the time. He has felt more like a loving grandfather than a father to his youngest child, Beatrice. Like us all mere mortals, we all make grand mistakes and this last marriage was just that. He will get on with his life and is not too wounded. She will find another man and divorce again and the child will want to be with her father a lot more. Paul McCartney will have to watch his health very closely, as there seems to be a heart problem and he could suffer a severe stroke.

★ Prince Harry

He could marry before brother Wills. The girls would not mind a double wedding but the boys have separate dates. The Queen is keeping out of it and seems to see Will's girl quite regularly. It's not a competition, but Harry's girl would love to get married as soon as possible. Will's love is just leaving it up to her Prince Charming. They all seem to get on well, but Harry would like his lady of course to move to England, and she may have to if she wants to be the Princess Bride. Wills is a reckless driver and likes the speed a bit too much and he will have to be careful of an accident. Harry though, seemingly a wild card, is more of a dare devil on a horse. He is maturing and there is now not so much anger and resentment in him. Harry is becoming a responsible young prince. He has got a lot out of his system and his father Prince Charles
