Walking In The World

Eclipses can be cosmic messengers, and for you this spring there are two eclipses occurring that have something to tell you about your everyday life, and your deeper aspirations.

Firstly the eclipse of the Moon on September 8 is about the everyday aspects of your world: the car; the school your kids attend; your social network; your neighbourhood. Watch out for signs or new information that the universe sends your way about these areas of life. Watch out for trickster types whose promises may be too good to be true. Be especially considerate towards your neighbours. Practise patience, which is a natural Capricorn talent. Seek peaceful resolutions to disputes if you don't want disagreements to escalate.

The second eclipse is an eclipse of the Sun on September 22. Around this time you could be bursting with big ideas, and therefore restless or even dissatisfied. Identify directions in which you would like to expand. Areas governed by this eclipse include higher education, travel, spiritual growth and creativity. Creativity is a great outlet for you this spring. Take some concrete steps towards your personal goals, and the cosmos will assist you. Eclipses can sometimes bring news, events or information that is initially upsetting; however, there is the seed of a new beginning in whatever comes your way, so try to see the positive.

Relationships

You may have experienced some uneasy times in your love life during 2006. Have you found it a challenge to open up emotionally, or felt pre-occupied with every passing feeling? All year long, Saturn (your ruling planet) has been highlighting the need to go deeper into your emotions, and love has been a trigger for this process. If you feel unusually emotional or sensitive, don't worry. You are actually learning how your emotions operate; and, more importantly, how to let them rise and fall whilst staying centred or detached. This is a lesson that is vital for humanity at this time, so focus on it. If you haven't yet learnt the wonderful 2-minute tool called E.F.T. (Emotional Freedom Technique), find someone who teaches it fast! I, for one, can vouch that it's effective.

This spring, love will be dramatic and challenging at times, and you need to be brave if you are to achieve the stability you want in your relationship. Love is a catalyst for personal healing on the deepest level. As you learn more about how your emotions operate, your relationship can become more stable, yet deliciously passionate.

September 4 and 6 show great stars for meeting someone new, or for improvement in an existing relationship. If you meet someone new around then, it's likely you've met them before in a past life. This doesn't mean you can't be lovers now, only that the bond you have runs deep, and could be complex.

September 17 shows the possibility of a breakthrough in a relationship that's been under strain. A sudden change in circumstances, or the resolution of a dispute could also occur. Around September 19, an aggravating bunch of planets could signal conflict or an upsetting experience. Be honest, dig deep, and don't be superficial.

Around mid-October you may find it difficult to satisfy work demands and your partner's demands. This is temporary but sparks could fly. Try to remain detached. Later in October, the Moon makes a lovely sextile to the Sun, Venus and Mars in Scorpio. This is a highly romantic time, but there could be confusion or an emotional scene as well. Venus and Mars are attracted to each other, of course, but they are opposites. Trust your intuition. Give volatile situations time to settle down.

Around November 9 a change could be needed that requires courage. This change looks to be positive once you take the step right in front of you. November 10 is one of the best dates this spring for a new love to appear, so go shopping, dancing or whatever else gets you out of the house. November 25 is passionate, and the 29th is highly sensitive. Key theme: Explore, stretch and grow.

Home And Family

There are some lovely opportunities during September, especially around the 16th. Around this time, decisive action moves things forward. Between September 23 and October 23, when the Sun visits this area of your solar chart, it's also a time for action, though other family members might oppose your plans, especially career plans. Stick to what you want: they are likely to simmer down during late October.

October 4, 12, 14, 15, 19 and 20 are all good for real estate matters or moving house. The Full Moon on October 7 could be emotional. Speak your truth, but also be
